About the Lowe

Founded in 1950, the Lowe Art Museum remains one of Miami-Dade County's most dynamic cultural institutions. Its permanent collection now comprises nearly 19,300 artworks and culturally significant objects, which collectively represent five millennia of human creativity on every inhabited continent. The Lowe leverages these rich holdings, together with its robust schedule of temporary exhibitions and its complementary educational and enrichment programs to serve as a vital resource for art and culture for the benefit of the University of Miami, Miami-Dade County, and beyond.
